Behind the Smoke

Volume #39 "Smoke Signals"

Printed by: Fox Photographics

Fox Representative: Thomas Treadw

Advisor: Cammy Kesterson

Editors: Miranda Wilfong & John Gibb

Yearbook class was always a fun and crazy place to be. It was the hub of excitement on a daily basis. Students could always be found taking pictures, creating layouts, making corrections and attending many events to get the scoop on the current happenings with Pocahontas County High School students. This year was especially exciting for the 2009 Warrior yearbook staff. It would be the first year that the yearbook would be in complete color. This gave our staff a great deal of freedom in the design of the book. The staff chose to bring some old to the new by the decision to name the yearbook after the old school newspaper "Smoke Signals." This also inspired the staff to create layouts with a newspaper theme with a modern twist. Likewise, a major change that the staff took in producing the yearbook was reorganizing the pages to flow accordingly. Not to forget, a new initiative that the yearbook staff members took to make their presence known throughout the school and extra curricular events was through creating staff shirts representing our theme. Overall, it's been a fresh and reinventing year behind the busy doors of yearbook. The bar has been raised and this act might be a tough one to follow.

Letters from the Editors

WOW!! What an amazing year. Being an editor has really been quite a challenge and responsibility. There always seems to be a heavy weight on my shoulders to produce the perfect yearbook. The staff members and myself had our difficult times, but we worked through it and achieved our goals at the end with a smile and a laugh. I am very thankful that the staff pulled together in the end and made our yearbook a success. To the Warrior staff of 2010, I wish you the best of luck as remember time management and organization is key.

Yours Truly
John Gibb

There are a lot of challenges and issues that the yearbook staff faced with during the making of every new yearbook. It's a long process and the drama, computer malfunctions, writer's block and the occasional slump days were some of the more frequent struggles that had to be overcome in order to meet the creeping deadlines. Even then, not every deadline is met. It's been a memorable experience being a part of the yearbook staff the past two years, and it still amazes me every year when everyone pulls together and the creativity block, misunderstanding and personal battles are put behind. It's been a great privilege of mine being yearbook editor and the knowledge that I have gained from this position is unlimited. It's been a great year, a great yearbook staff, and a great success. Always,

Miranda Wilfong

Since the end of the Civil War, Pocahontas County Schools has grown to just one family. Starting out with approximately 149 different schools after the Civil War, including 2 African American schools, our schools have combined to just make one. Since then, those 149 different schools have been destroyed abandoned. Finally, on May 14, 1968, the citizens of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, bonded themselves to the fullest potential of $1,195,000 to begin a building program to construct, furnish, and equip a central high school for the County. The new "family" combined the former Green Bank, Hillsboro, and Marlinton High Schools and brought our high school students together for an enlarged and more inclusive program.

With these three major schools being rivals and having many disputes against each other, they came proudly together to form one breathing student body instead of three disputing schools.

Even with those hard times, the hard work and determination that was done has not gone unnoticed still today, in the school year 2008-2009.

Now in 2008, Pocahontas County High School is still continuing its excellence. With new technology and advancements, P.C.H.S. has added many courses to help students prepare for the future and help students to attend college.

As the first day of the 2008-2009 school year started, everything was going smoothly until the students heard the final exam exemption was taken away. Many students were disappointed, but they still moved on. The school year continued with the seniors excited to graduate and the juniors becoming seniors.

With P.C.H.S. excelling in both academics and sports, we have truly grown in these long years of hard work and plan to continue. Students still show their school spirit, which has been presented over the 39 years of P.C.H.S. history and hope to continue it over the upcoming years.

Students Making The Most of High-School

The students which was considered to be the hardest. This class was a little disappointed with the many tests that are required of them. The juniors were excited to step up to the plate and prepare prom and homecoming events. They also started to look at colleges and prepare themselves for additional education after high school. The seniors were on the downhill slide towards graduation. This class had many responsibilities such as: scholarships, college applications, ACT or SAT, and preparing themselves for the future ahead of them. This year had been one amazing journey and the students seemed to enjoy themselves every step of the way.

The students at Pocahontas County High School come in many varieties. Many found it real simple to fit in and make friends that last a lifetime. Whether you were an upperclassman or underclassman, everybody got along and made the most of their high school year. This year had been a thrilling roller coaster ride with many ups and few downs. The freshmen were excited to leave middle-school and head to a place where they felt like young adults. They had their first experience with block scheduling and getting involved with school clubs and activities. The sophomores were glad to complete their first year

Seniors

Seniors Prepare for the Real World

How the years pass from childhood to a high school senior! To many seniors, the final year of their childhood came too quickly. Most, if not all, the seniors were asking themselves if they were ready for the challenges that faced them as they entered the most important year of their schooling. There were many responsibilities to do before graduating: senior mentorship, scholarship applications, college applications, ACT and SAT, and much more. In between the seniors' busy schedules, they still found time to have fun and party. Homecoming seemed to be more sentimental to seniors than ever before. The King and Queen were crowned, and the winners were Abbi Hall and Grant Langston. School spirit abounded throughout Spirit Week with the seniors placing second overall. Arrangements got underway for graduation, prom, job contacts, tests, and of course senior-skip days. Seniors had too much to do and little time to do it in. They say high school is the best part of a person's life. Many will always remember the memories of best friends and first loves forever etched in their high school scrapbooks. The class of 2009 will always be remembered for their fun-loving, free-spirited, and outgoing personalities.

Juniors

Next Stop, 2010

The class of 2010 had many things to look forward to. Coming into the year of 2008-2009 the junior class had already finished half of their high school experience. They started out the year with an outstanding start by winning Homecoming spirit week. They were in charge of selecting the 2008 Homecoming theme, picking the student dress-up days, and decorating. In all, Homecoming week was a success. After Homecoming most of the students were stressed because of taking the ACT, preparing for college and senior year, and also taking some of the hardest classes. The Junior class elected Josh Arbogast as their class President, Joy Walkup as their Vice-President, Cody Perkins as Secretary, and Martin Lockman as Treasurer. The class officers led the way, but not without the help of their class sponsors, which included: Kathy White, Mali Minter, Kay Wiley, Joy Boothe, Mike DiPasquale, and Mike Knisely. Days turned into weeks and weeks turned into months; before they knew it they would be seniors. It may have seemed like the junior class was overwhelmed with things to do, but the year flew by and everybody gained great memories: memories of Homecoming, the prom, and thoughts of having only one year left.

Reid Harper and Jerry Simonin are entertained while watching the Warrior football team.

Sophomores

The Class Of 2011; No Longer Rookies

The Fres...Sorry, the new Sophomores continued to start the 2008 school year with smiling faces, bummed but smiling. Memories of exciting summer moments and new summer romances were still currently in the air. Your high school summers are most certainly some of the best. Many sophomores were eager to return to Pocahontas County High School, ready for another year. Meeting old friends, and making new; the first day of school was a blast. With major academic decisions ahead, many were also deciding class majors and determining three-year plans. Students prepared for the Plan Test and West Virginia Writing Assessment. The sophomores now had an educated handle on high school and were no longer rookies. Despite all the new responsibilities of being a sophomore, they also had to begin fund-raising for prom and graduation. All upperclassmen know the importance of fund-raising. With new sports under consideration, they also contemplated the option of becoming part of a Warrior team. The sophomores finally got the hang of high school and their new freedoms. All in all, the sophomores were extremely grateful that they weren't freshmen anymore.

Freshmen

New Beginnings for the Class of 2012

The school years are always changing, and no year in high school would be complete without the freshman class. Every year new students arrive ready to learn and leery of what might be ahead of them in the future, but everything ends up fine. Now, no longer middle schoolers, the new high school students are ready to start their path to the future. The freshmen put forth a great effort at their first Homecoming. They played hard at powderpuff football and worked well together designing the freshmen bulletin board. The freshmen received an "A" for effort, after falling short from victory. Of course the freshmen also had another task to face, fundraising! The freshmen came in second place during the phone cards for troops fundraising. One would say that though these students are just youth, they are quickly growing up and seeing what the world is really like. The freshmen ended up being like the freshmen of the past, but they all have proven their capabilities to adjust to new expectations that high school life brings.

The new freshman class get technical when they receive their student accounts and passwords.

As the new year comes and the old one goes, P.C.H.S. faculty and staff strive to their fullest to make sure they are doing their best for the students. With the new 2008-2009 school year, P.C.H.S. students got to meet two new teachers, Chris Sutton in the Math division, and Ryan Ullman in the music division. Also Susan Borrer was appointed as the Attendance Director for Pocahontas County. While the new teachers settle in, the others continue doing what they do best: "Preparing students today for tomorrow's challenges."

Academics

Students Hit the Books and Discover

Academics is the main purpose for students coming to school. Learning and discovering new things is what all the teachers want their students to achieve. By being a student at PCHS, it is not difficult to choose a class because they are so limited. Of course, students have to take the required core classes: English, Math, Science, History, P.E., and Health in order to fulfill graduation requirements. Students must also fulfill career cluster requirements, and seniors have to complete 72 hours of work-based learning experience. Whether the student prefers vocational instruction, music, art, college courses, or business, many different options exist depending upon the student. With many opportunities for students to go above and beyond what is required, some students seem to take the easy road out and only do what is required of them. If the student plans on furthering his or her education following high school, it is very crucial to sign up for classes that will better prepare them for their post-secondary education. Students need to realize "what you give is what you get and what you get is what you give" and then hopefully they will become talented, well-rounded adults.

English

Students Bring Literature to Life . . .

Skits, novels, essays and plays were all a part of a very busy year for the English Department at PCHS. Mr. Sheets split his time between English, coaching, and teaching a full PE class. His classes had an opportunity to incorporate marketing skills into their skits, finding solutions to everyday problems such as boring school lunches. Ms. Boothe had a very successful AP class that presented a play based on the book "And The Eyes were on God." Mr. VanReenan had another successful play performed in front of the student body and the public based on the children's novel "The Little Princess."

English, literature and theatre was a great way for students to learn to express themselves with the written word and by acting. The skills learned in these classes would be the foundation of their futures.

Science

Students Make Life an Experiment

The science department is full of exciting experiments. They are the most unpredictable courses at Pocahontas County High School. All students must complete at least three credits of science: Integrated Science 9, Integrated Science 10 and a higher level Science such as Anatomy & Physiology, Advanced Placement Biology, Earth Science, Chemistry etc. Students must memorize elements, study muscles and bones, and learn a sort of interesting thing about the earth. During the beginning of the year the earth science course went to Fort Warick for a science trip; students there dug and searched through the ground to find interesting things. Anatomy & Physiology ected cats, which was a wonderful experience for student body. They were exposed to body parts, which helped students understand how they worked. Chemistry classes learned about molecular structures, atomic numbers, and atomic masses. They also allowed students to complete a lab that let them tie t-shirts that they will always have as a keepsake.

Mathematics

Students Compute with New Technology

This year the mathematics department gained a new math teacher as well as new technology. Mr. Sutton became the replacement teacher for Mrs. McGee. He taught Trigonometry, Algebra II, and Geometry. The new technology that the division received was CPS (Classroom Performance Systems), graphing calculators, and projectors. The teachers will use these items to keep up with the 21st Century. As mathematics is becoming more important in life, PCHS is proud to have the hard-working mathematics team (Mike DiPasqua, Teresa Rhea, and Ch Sutton). Students gain

Social Studies

History in the Making . . .

In West Virginia, students in the professional pathway are required to have four social studies classes. These classes include: American History I, World History, American History II and Civics. Teachers of History include Mr. Taylor, Mr. Anderson, and Mrs. Martin. In American History I, students learn from Christopher Columbus up to the Civil War era. In World History, students explore the many events that have shaped our world today. In American History II, students learn the 1920's, World War I and II, Korea, and many other topics from the 1900's. In American History II, students are required to create a social studies project on a topic from any past time. In Civics, students begin to learn about politics, the economy, and many other topics. Generally, by a student's senior year, he or she has completed the l studies courses. One of more challenging classes ed at PCHS is ESSH. This is an advanced placement ish, Social Studies, Humanities class that nds through the summer Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors who are wanting challenge themselves. ht by Mrs. Martin, H is offered to students desire more work inside out of the classroom. Agricultural Education

Feeding Minds and Bodies...

Agricultural education classes were some of the busiest classes at PCHS. Ms. Davis had a full schedule of hands-on activities for all of her classes. Book work was a small component of their education. Many students found talents and future careers through these exciting activities. The Ag. Mechanics class learned how to weld as well as build with the use of wood-working tools to create bird houses. The horticulture class had a very busy spring preparing a greenhouse for the spring flower and vegetable plant sale. The students also had a fun time learning the facts about small seeds that soon sprouted into the sweet-smelling flowers and tasty veggies we enjoy eating in the summer. By being a member of an agriculture class, students were able to become members of the Future Farmers of America.

Health & Physical Education

Healthy Minds Healthy Bodies . . .

The health and physical education department was, once again, packed with many freshmen trying to meet the health and PE requirement for their schedules. Health students learned about the human body and learned many interesting facts and tips in order to keep them healthy for the rest of their lives. Physical Education students participated in many physical activities to get Mr. Anderson, Mr. Knisely and Mr. Sheets wanted the students to live a fit and healthy life. Mr. Knisely also taught a new class to fall in with living a healthy lifestyle, First Aid and Safety. In this class students had the opportunity to learn how to save people's lives through CPR, first aid and the Heimlich maneuver.

Consumer Science & Driver Education

Preparing for the Rugged Road of Life . . .

Driver Education and Consumer Sciences are a group of classes which students can take to learn how to take care of their families and themselves. This group of classes includes Human Development, Travel WV, ProStart 1A, 1B, 2A, 2B, and Parenting. Parenting is taken in the same term as Driver Education in nine-week intervals. In order to be able to take the Driver Education Parenting course, students must be or turn 16 before the term ends. Driver Education gives students the opportunity to get behind the wheel of a vehicle and learn the rules and regulations of driving the roads in West Virginia. Band & Music

Mr. Ullman Brings New Beat To The Band . . .

Civil War was the theme when the PCHS Marching Band made their debut on Warrior Field. Mr. Ryan Ullman became the new band and music director with the assistance of Ms. Danielle Goode. The Warrior Marching Band demonstrated great musical skills at the annual band camp, and the week ended on a high note with a performance for public. John Gibb stepped to the plate and became drum major, which earned him the top drum award at Halloween Classic. The band pushed through few obstacles and ended the season with success. Traveling to many competitions, the band earned higher scores than previous years. Besides Band, Mr. Ullman taught Jazz Band.

Business & Yearbook

Takin' Care of Business . . .

Business classes this year were on the rise. With many students choosing business as their majors, all business classes seemed to be packed with many dedicated students. With four different classes to choose from: Yearbook, Keyboarding, Introduction to Business, and Computer Applications 1, students found it easy to select one of these educational classes. The yearbook always seemed to be popular for time, especially all the snow days that were encountered. With the pressure of getting the yearbook done before the semester graduated, every member pitched in and made the yearbook a success. Whether it was learning how to balance a checkbook, typing m ers, or just learning to operate a computer, Mrs. Kesterson enjoyed these, and she was proud when students acted like young adults. Mrs. Kesterson is anxious to see her students grow up and successful businesses of their own.

Electricity & Electronics

Students Create Full Circuit . . .

Electricity and Electronics are very popular courses at PCHS. Between the two classes, the skills the students learn go beyond switches and wire-nuts. Electricity is by far the most favored vocational class offered at the high school. Students learn the basics of residential, commercial, and industrial wiring. The ones who participate in all req classes in the field are el to take the certification for their electricity lice. The electronics and elect courses are very simil concept. In the elect program, students learn basics of using various of test equipment and to different circuits using va components. During C students learn the proper

Building Construction & Forestry

Timber! Wildlife! & Power-Tools! Oh My!

At Pocahontas County High School, Forestry and Building Construction are highly valued courses by students. Our Building Construction and Forestry classes are some of the most well-recognized in the state of West Virginia. Building Construction and Forestry are taught by Mr. Gibson and Mr. Burdette. In Forestry-related classes, students learn about natural resources and our environment. Forestry isn't just all about trees; it's about enjoying your surroundings and where you live. Building Construction has provided a great learning experience.

Art & Foreign Language

Expression Through Different Mediums . . .

Both the arts and foreign languages are different ways to communicate to other human beings. They are both also required/recommended classes to take in order for a student to graduate. The Foreign Language Festival took place on May 12. Many students cooked different ethnic foods, performed sketches, sang and/or recited poems. A vast amount of different works of art were entered into the arts contest the Evening with the Arts (a festival put together to celebrate the Fine Arts in our community.) Types of art included: ceramics, drawings, paintings, and mosaics. Many students represented Pocahontas

2009 Warrior Athletes Create Legendary Seasons

The 2008-2009 Warrior sports seasons have been the most successful yet. With completely undefeated schedules and wins over triple A schools, our Warriors were on TOP. No one could withhold the physical strength of our Warrior Football team, who finished their season perfectly and won the Potomac Valley Conference title. Both Boys and Girls Soccer teams were eligible for the state championship, and made it to the semi-finals. The girls won the Coalfield Conference title, while the boys were runner-up. Our Warrior Golf team made the journey to the State Golf Tournament, and our Lady Warrior Volleyball and Softball teams made major improvements from the previous year. Starting in late November, our basketball teams began strenuous practices, which led both teams to the Playoffs in Charleston and also earned them the PVC titles. Our Warrior Track team showed their determination in track meets and proved themselves champions when they also won the PVC title, placed in the Gazette Relays and advanced to the State Track Meet. Our Boys Baseball team had a winning season and continued all the way to states for the first time in school history. The 2008-2009 year will be a legendary year and will be in PCHS history forever.

Girls Spike Their Way to Sectionals

The volleyball team started the season with a new coach. Melvin Lindsey trained the girls throughout the summer as well as four nights a week. The girls survived a tough season with lots of sweat and hard work, playing at least two games a week. Although their toughest game was against Covington and biggest rival was Ty Valley, the best memory of the season was the defeat in Highland County. Overall the season went well for the girls coming a long way. The team played hard and placed third at sectionals to finalize the season. Lindsey is looking forward to returning next season.

Miranda Scott, the only senior on the team, was very proud to be a Lady Warrior this year.

Lady Warriors Take It To The Goal

The Lady Warrior Soccer team started the season off with great determination. With two great senior team captains, Melody Walkup and Madeline Jerome, the team knew that they were being led by great leadership. After several summer practices and several games won, the team was on their way to a very successful season. Even though there were occasional losses and the team pulled through and ended with eight encouraging wins. In the sectionals and regionals, the entire team got on the bandwagon expressing their excitement for the team's success.

Warrior Football...on the Warpath!

Warrior football began in early August with strong determination to head to states. The first game of the season against the Tucker County Mountain Lions was a great game with the Warriors coming out on top. The beginning of September started off by playing Shady Spring, which is a top team, winning with a close score. Pendleton County was then determined to beat us after first two wins, but we even showed them up on home field. The first game October was our Homecoming game against Greenbrier - a very strong team. Our excellent school we conquered the Cavaliers. We then rose to the top of our perfect 10-0 Season Round One of the playoffs. We were able to have homefield advantage during the playoffs.

Warriors Bat Their Way to States . . .

The 2009 Baseball team had a slow start due to weather conditions, but they kept in shape and concentrated on the rest of the season. The players took practices seriously and strived to improve. They practiced long hours in the evenings so they could play to the best of their ability. Last year's season was good, but this year's was going to be even better. This was the first that coach Mike DiPasquale took over the baseball team. Successfully, with a winning record, he coached the team well and they made it a way to states. Although the guys won most of their games, the team learned that winning isn't everything and the most important aspect of any sport is teamwork. When sectional finally came, the Warriors

Softball; BATTER UP!

The Lady Warrior softball team had a much better year than they have had in previous years. The team worked hard and they all worked together. This year the Warrior softball team had two new coaches, Frosty and Julie McNabb. When the players found out that they were the new coaches, they were all about how it would turn out and how rough they would be on them. The players came to find out that it wasn't that bad, and they all have now learned skills to help them succeed. Last year the Lady Warriors won not a single game at the beginning of the season, but turned with the spring like conditions. Many were cancelled and ruled, however and not hold back enthusiasm the team. This season was one of the best seasons that I've seen with superb athleticism. The girls will be losing great senior athletes this year, which might slow them back; but with new comers they will be able to keep their heads down and be prepared for a successful season that they will have next year.

Warriors Go to Distance!

With only one coach, the PCHS track team pushed to do their best. Ms. Wiley, the girls' coach, was unable to help with the team for the majority of the season. The track season was very rainy and chilly, but the members continued to practice through the disagreeable weather, to compete for a win in their competition. Jeff Fertig broke the school record this year in the 100m jump. But he was not the only member to do well. Abe Rittenhouse, Trevor Caplinger, Grant Langston, and Jesse Bolyard made the boys' 4x8 relay team, who also broke the previous school record. The

Additional Activities

Clubs, Assemblies & Summer Activities

The year would not be complete without Additional Activities. From Clubs like Drama and FCA to assemblies, to summer activities like GSA, GHA, band camp, and jobs...the lives of our students are never boring. Students have taken themselves beyond the limits of just academics and athletics. Clubs, activities, summer and part-time jobs all have brought students into the world of possibilities and responsibilities. There are many clubs offered, and there is something for every student. The offer of clubs and assemblies also lets students get a glimpse of what they might want as a future career. Also, summer activities such as jobs, 4-H camp, and band camp let every student get a taste of the real world and get a chance to let their hair down. All and all, the student body of PCHS is a very active one and with so many opportunities out in the world, they are all ready to show what they are capable of.

Warrior Fever; Catch It!

This year's Homecoming was fantastic. With over $10,000 raised for various organizations, PCHS was full of Warrior Pride. The theme was "Warrior Fever; Catch it!" The dress-up days were as follows: decade day, camouflage, occupation, cartoon character, twin, and the traditional maroon and gold day. The week before Homecoming, the four classes began decorating in hopes of winning the bulletin-board and homeroom-door competitions. The following Monday was the day of truth as the faculty of PCHS chose their favorite designs. The Warrior football team prepared for their upcoming match with the Greenbrier West Cavaliers. The newly organized "tribe" made extremely creative banners and signs displaying their Warrior Pride. As the joyful spirit week came to an end, the dangerous but fun Powderpuff Football game was played. In a grueling match between all four classes of girls, the Seniors came out on top. Despite the rough and tough Senior spirit, it wasn't enough. Overall the Junior class won spirit week. As a reward, the Juniors got to report to the buses five minutes earlier than usual. Happily, the whole school left PCHS Friday with smiling

Once Upon A Night At Warrior Field. . .

The night of October 10th was a very good night for Warrior Football. It wasn't too cold and there was no rain in the air. As the varsity took the field against the Greenbrier West Cavaliers, they had the look of determination on their faces. Although the Cavaliers were coming into the game with a record of 4-1, the Warriors were confident. Even though the game started out as a battle, the Warriors conquered the Cavaliers 32-7. During halftime the Homecoming Court took the field. The Freshman attendants were: Kara Kidd and Curtis Pyles. The Sophomore attendants were: Mercedes Warner and Noah Pugh. The Junior attendants were: Nicole Barlow and Travis Cook. The Senior attendants were: Jessica Nelson and Derek Kiner. The Queen Candidates were: Abbi Hall, Shayla Carpenter and Chelsey Gum. The king candidates were Grant Langston, Travis Turner and Caleb Pugh. As everyone waited anxiously, the winners were announced for the 2008 King and Queen. The winners were Abbi Hall and Grant Langston. This year we had a special guest at Homecoming, the original warrior mascot, Joe Jonese. He was dressed in his full Indian gear. As the band did their show at halftime, Joe Jonese was right beside the Homecoming candidates as they walked across the field. Also, walking beside Joe Jonese was Ellie Bell in her Indian gear.

Homecoming

May I Have Your Attention Please . . .

This academic school year, Pocahontas County High School held a variety of assemblies. There were a variety of events and educational-purpose assemblies held in the gymnasium and auditorium. Ms. Boothe held a successful elf auction. The proceeds from the auction funded the efforts of Project Christmas. Assemblies were a time when students got out of their classes for a fun, exciting educational event or something that they have earned for not receiving any BIFS and being on their best behavior. Students got time to show off their talents during the Talent Show, which was a great success this year. Everyone appreciated the assemblies held at our school and the people who presented them because they helped liven up the day. College Day is a great event; it shows students where they can go after high school and it helps notify students about different colleges and careers that are available, from engineering to agriculture. Sheriff Jonese came and talked to the entire student body about drinking and driving on May 7, 2009. The prosecuting attorney Donna Price came along with him to discuss the trouble we would be in if we were caught drinking and driving, especially after prom. This year Mr. Sanders decided to have an extra-long lunch shift for the students when they were absent less than a certain amount of days and didn't receive any BIFS. They also had chances to win awesome prizes.

Students Take Advantage of the Summer Sun . . .

The summer holds many opportunities for Pocahontas County students. To most, summer means travel and looking forward to the annual Pocahontas County Pioneer Days. For some seniors, this means that it's time for summer mentorship, which is a requirement of all seniors in order to graduate. Luckily for those who choose this route, mentorship only takes up 72 hours of summer and they still have plenty of free time. Likewise, some choose a similar path by choosing employment. But for many, summer involves going to summer programs. The county 4-H camp is held in June in Thornwood, while the state 4-H camp is held during July at Jackson's Mill, where members enjoy many group activities and nights by a campfire. Band Camp is also held at Thornwood and is a place where students learn the fundamentals of music and prepare for the marching season. The Governor's Honor Academy was held at Bethany College, and three talented students were selected to go there. The Upward Bound program occurs at D&E College, and students learn all the basics about college life. Other activities include: rodeo competitions, church mission trips, Boy Scouts, and whatever else the student might be interested in. Whether it is camping on the lake or cramming the brain at a summer job, students seem to keep busy during their summer break.

Warriors Work for Their Bucks

Living in Pocahontas County is full of many things, but jobs are not one of them. The workforce in the area is limited with many adults holding positions in most convenience stores and gas stations. However, this is yet another challenge that Pocahontas County High School students have learned to overcome. Students hold positions all over the county. For those who reside in Marlinton, Dairy Queen, Subway, Foodland, Fas-Chek and The Greenbrier Grille are some places you'd find students working. As for those who live in Green Bank, you can find students working at The Hermitage and various positions at NRAO. In the winter, Snowshoe is a hot-spot for student employment, with many working in several of the restaurants, rental places, Split Rock Pool, and even ski instructing. Some students make it out lucky by holding positions with the Cass Scenic Railroad, WVNR, AmeriCorps Energy Express, West Virginia State Road, and Forest Service at Wagota, rather than at a restaurant or retail store. Although students may not enjoy working after school or on weekends, their pay back is worth it. Not to mention, a handful of students volunteer their free time doing services with the Fire Departments throughout the County. These students who take on the responsibility outside of the classroom get their first taste of the real world, where their Warrior Bucks turn into cold hard cash.

Students Live Life in the Fast Lane

Receiving one's drivers license is a big part of many teenagers' lives. Although student driving is not permitted at Pocahontas County High School, students still managed to work around the authorities and drive on occasion. Students had a variety of vehicles, ranging from old clunkers to pricey sports cars. For many, their first vehicle may not be their dream car, but it gets them from place to place. Likewise, for students who are continuously on the go, their vehicles are like their second home or a movable closet. Unfortunately for us, traveling wasn't the cheapest leisure ever with gas prices fluctuating up to approximately 4 dollars a gallon for gasoline and 5 dollars for diesel. That was hard on all of our wallets, especially due to the distances we are faced with by living in Pocahontas County. Not to mention, the closest movie theater or Wal-mart for those who lived in Marlinton was located in Lewisburg, and those who lived in Green Bank had to travel to Elkins. With all this traveling, several students had to juggle a job in order to afford going from place to place. Likewise, a lot of other expenses go along with having a vehicle, ranging from maintenance to insurance. A majority of the people at the high school choose to take measures to lower these expenses such as enrolling in drivers education here at PCHS. Either way, students will always find a way to work around the cost and authority at Pocahontas County High School in order to drive in the fast lane.

Warriors Getting Noticed...

Students at PCHS find time to join extra-curricular activities. Whether it is FBLA, VICA, Spanish Club, FCA, Drama Club, or FFA, many don't find it hard to enjoy these activities. The Future Business Leaders of America traveled to Charleston for the state conference on March 30 and 31. John Gibb, Jason Mallow, and Olivia Grimes placed 2nd in Business Ethics and J.D. Mallow placed 2nd in Help Desk.

These students went on to the National Leadership Conference in Anaheim, CA. VICA traveled to Beckley for the state conference in March. Alex Jones, Seth Mitchell, Grant Langston, Andy Hefner, William Taylor, and Jacob McClure will represent VICA in the National Conference in Kansas City, MO. FFA did well in all their competitive events and also enjoyed their time at the Leadership Conference, Horse Judging, Farm Machinery Show, etc. John Gibb, Martin Lockman, and Kiy Tywoniw traveled to Morgantown for the West Virginia Honor Band. Rachel Cain, Nathan Hamons, Cathy Hefner, and Cody Perkins traveled to Charleston for the Hugh O'Brien Leadership Conference. The Spanish Club went to various restaurants around the region to learn more about the Spanish culture. The Spanish Club also went to dance shows around the state. The State Social Studies Fair was held in Charleston and John Gibb and Santana Beck traveled there, with John winning first place. PCHS students enjoyed getting out of the classroom and getting noticed at their trips and competitions.

As the Dice Begin to Roll, 'A Night in Vegas' Unfolds!

After many weeks of anticipation and hard work, the juniors made the prom a beautiful success. The theme was "A Night in Vegas" and was held in the Mountain Lodge at Snowshoe. Many students were concerned about the rainy weather that seemed to come and go all day. Thankfully, when they arrived at the top, the rain cleared out along with the fog. All the beautiful dresses and handsome tuxedos arrived at eight o'clock and never stopped dancing until it was time to leave at eleven o'clock. The music was very delightful along with the catering. Close to the end of the night, our Prom Queen and King were chosen, as well as our Prom Princess and Prince. PCHS students chose Derek Kiner as Prom King; Erica Beverage as Prom Queen; Josh Arbogast as Prom Prince; and Amanda Nottingham as Prom Princess. The night was truly one to remember, and everyone left with a smile on their face and a memory in their heart.

And the Winners Are . . .

Each year Pocahontas County High School takes the time to recognize the great accomplishments our students have made throughout the year. The Athletic Banquet was held on May 27, 2009, and the Senior Awards Night was held on May 28, 2009. Both of the achievement banquets were held during the night this year. After all, it was a complete success. These banquets recognize outstanding seniors and wonderful athletes.

The seniors are awarded college scholarships, and they also recognize Pocahontas students who have excelled. The Sports Banquet was also a big hit for the 2008-2009 academic school year. Every single one of our sports teams did a wonderful job during their season. They recognize people who excel in the classroom as well as on the field or in the gymnasium. They were called up for their various abilities through awards presented by the athletic department. Awards night, hosted by the Senior class, was a time for students to be recognized for all that they have accomplished their last four years at P.C.H.S. They made efforts in various academic and vocational classes. It was a chance for every student to see what honors they could strive to obtain through hard work and dedication. Peoples' family and parents attend these activities and are shocked by all the great athletic and academic students that we present at Pocahontas County High School.

Moving on to the Next Mountain . . .

Graduation was held on May 30, 2009, at 11 a.m. in the PCHS Gymnasium, with 77 students graduating. The ceremony began with the class walking in as a whole to Pomp and Circumstance. After everyone was seated, Angela Jordan gave the invocation. Grant Langston followed with the address of welcome. Bridget Boothe, Erica Beverage, Seth Mitchell, and Casey Withers then reflected back on their high school years, stating the events that occurred each year. Kendall Beverage proudly took the stage and shared his memories of Logan Dale, who sadly passed away during their sophomore year. When reflections concluded, Valedictorian Trevor Caplinger shared his appreciation of being part of the class of 2009 in the student address. Salutatorian Melody Walkup stepped in with the address of appreciation before Stacy McPaters presented the class of 2009 to Principal Thomas Sanders. Mr. Sanders, Mr. Lindsey, Dr. Law, and Senior Sponsors presented the diplomas to the class of 2009. With excitement in the air, the seniors were relieved when they departed the gym while "Don't Stop Believin" by Journey was played. The senior class at PCHS received $780,000 in scholarships and/or grants for their post-secondary education. Sixty-eight members of the class will be attending college in the fall of 2009; thirteen will enter the work force; three will enter the military; and four were still undecided. The cheering of the crowd and the energy of the room resulted in a day that will never be forgotten.

SUPERMARKETS

Presents the Class of 2009, 10-Year Predictions!

Justin Alderman	I will hopefully be married and have a family.
Ryan Alderman	Hopefully in 10 years, I will be farming lots of cattle and still doing construction work.
Mike Callison	I'll be out farming in Hillsboro.
Revor Caplinger	I'll be out of school, out of debt, and out of Pocahontas County.
Mayla Carpenter	I'll be sitting on the toilet singing "Joker" by the Steve Miller Band.
Trianna Cummins	I'll be chillin' on the coast of South Africa with a drink in my hand, listening to "G Love."
Malton Curry	I don't know where I'll be or what I'll be doing, but either way I'll be having fun!
Turtis Bennett	In 10 years, I see myself graduated from college, starting a family, and bringing in the money.
Erica Beverage	In 10 years, they will call me "ZZ-Top."
Endall Beverage	In ten years, I will be finished with school, have a great job, be married, and have or be waiting for my first child.
Kevin Beverage	I will be living on the East Coast, enjoying life, and living it to the fullest.
Eridget Boothe	In ten years, I will be living in the woods with a husband, dog, and a master's degree in forestry.
Colly Burdette	I will be working, spending money, and having a nice car.
Stephen Burns	I'll probably be working at Burns Motor Freight and riding lots of motorcycles in my free time.
Mike Cutlip	I will still be living on Knapps Creek with a good job, while bear hunting in my spare time.
Ryan Doyle	I hope to have a well paying job.
De Evans	In 2019, I see myself trying to settle down, open a car shop or for NASCAR.
Jeff Fertig	Looking back on what I did 10 years ago.
Amantha Friel	10 years from now, I will be married to my high school sweetheart, starting a family and having a home.
John Gibb	I will be married to the love of my life, hopefully having two children, and living in Manhattan reporting around the world for NBC News.
Daniel Good	I'll be working, in prison, or dead!
Anna Greathouse	I'll be out of Pocahontas County, a college graduate with a degree in psychology, and will be happy with my life.
Helsey Gum	In ten years, I'll be working as an athletic trainer for Duke University and searching for that special someone.
Abbi Hall	In 10 years, I hope to be married with kids and working in a hospital somewhere.
Andy Hefner	I'll be living the dream in my dad's basement.
Mayla Hutchison	In ten years, I see myself with a husband, maybe kids, and living out my dreams as a photographer.
Madeline Jerome	I'll be living in Australia and surfing it up with my pet kangaroo, Roxy.
Alex Jones	I'll be chilling with Andy in his dad's basement.
Angie Jordan	I will be graduated from college with a degree for pharmacy and forensic science and living somewhere besides Pocahontas County.
Derek Kiner	I will be living in Edray, keeping it real.
Dele Kinnison	In ten years, I see myself working as an engineer at Cass Scenic Railroad State Park, married with a kid.
Rnie Kumpf	I will be a preacher of a church doing God's will for my life.
Risty Madron	In 2019, I will be practicing LPN, relaxing by a lake in North Carolina with my husband, planning our family.
Melissa Marshall	I will be finished with college, working, and making a family.
Haun McCarty	In 10 years, I'll be in Daytona Beach, Florida, with my own custom motorcycle shop, a huge house, and a beautiful woman at my side.
Jacob McClure	I will be skateboarding with Jeff Fertig on the Huntersville straight, trying not to get hit.
Tacy McPeters	I will be opening my own veterinary clinic here in Pocahontas County.
Eth Mitchell	I will not be caring about 10 year predictions.
ody Moore	I will be living somewhere out of the state of West Virginia, livin' life, and preparing for our 10 year reunion.
Frankie Naglie	I will be graduated from college.
ess Nelson	I will be married to Dervin Lambert, living in A-Town, and dancing to Jim Sharp.
Mariah Nelson	I plan to be married with two children and pursuing a teaching career.
Robert Nelson	I will be motorcycling from state to state hunting for Bigfoot.
Andrew Pritt	In 10 years, I will be out of law school, living happily with my wife and two children in Florida.
Therrie Peacock	I will be married with children, living outside of West Virginia, owning my own business and calling weekly to annoy "The Grumpy Old Man."
aleb Pugh	I will be working in Pocahontas County as a Physical Therapist.
ory Rexrode	I will either be gradated from college or still in the Navy and have a wife and a few kids.
Justin Roberston	I will still be living in Pocahontas County, working and bear hunting.
ean Rodriguez	I will still be thinking of something to write for this.
ayeli Rosete Diaz	I'll be traveling all over the world and learning many languages.
William Shafer	I will be in Pocahontas County, married and running the family business with lots of money.
arrie Shearer	In 10 years, I'll have graduated college and be a successful veterinarian, probably with no kids or marriage.
ristan Sheets	In 10 years from now, I picture myself employed at a good paying job where I will be able to pay my bills when I am living on my own.
randon Shoemaker	I will be living on my own, working full time, or in the service.
urt Vandevender	I will be in the Air Force, the Navy, or the Guard, living life to its fullest.
att Wade	"I don't need to be able to see myself as long as everyone else can see me" - Hideo Kojima
oger Watson	I will be working with my dad out of town.
Charles Wilfong	I will be living and working on the Wilfong Farms, married, with kids.
enneth Wilson	In ten years, I will remember these times and the people that made them special.
asey Withers	I can't predict the future, so I will be wherever my WVU experience takes me.
dam Wright	I see myself in the Navy working towards my retirement in 10 years.
